Get Started

Hi, teachers! I'm Tracy, and I'll be your learning partner throughout this tutorial.

Join me as we explore the iLit lesson segments and support resources that will help you teach meaningful lessons.

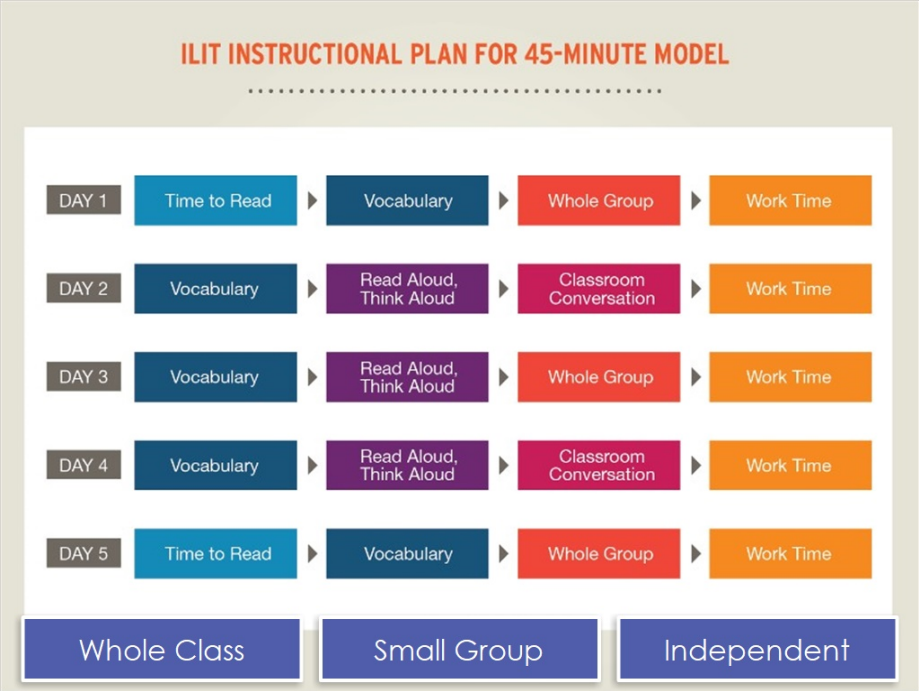
iLit Lessons



Your lessons are divided into segments.

iLit45 and iLit ELL instruction includes a combination of the lesson segments each day.

You'll have time daily for whole-class instruction and teacher modeling, small-group instruction or peer collaboration, and independent practice.

Let's explore each lesson segment.

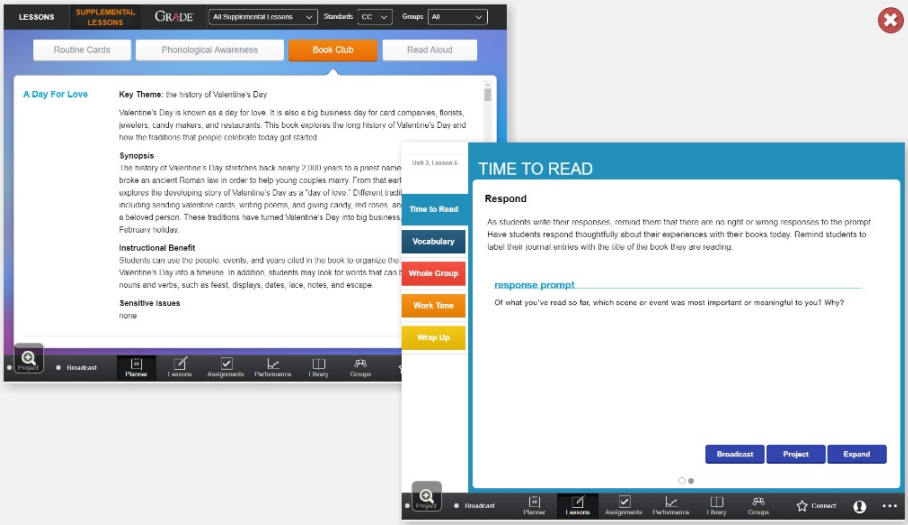
Teacher

You'll meet with students to monitor and assess reading comprehension during this time. Develop your own conference schedule or rely on the program to remind you of which students you need to meet with next. Use the handy Student Conference Form to take notes and help guide your conferences.

Student



During Time to Read, students select and read print or digital texts independently. They can also discuss texts in Book Clubs during this time. You can find resources and suggestions for Book Clubs under Supplemental Lessons.

Want to incorporate some writing? Share an optional writing prompt. Have students record their responses in the Journal section of the Student Notebook.

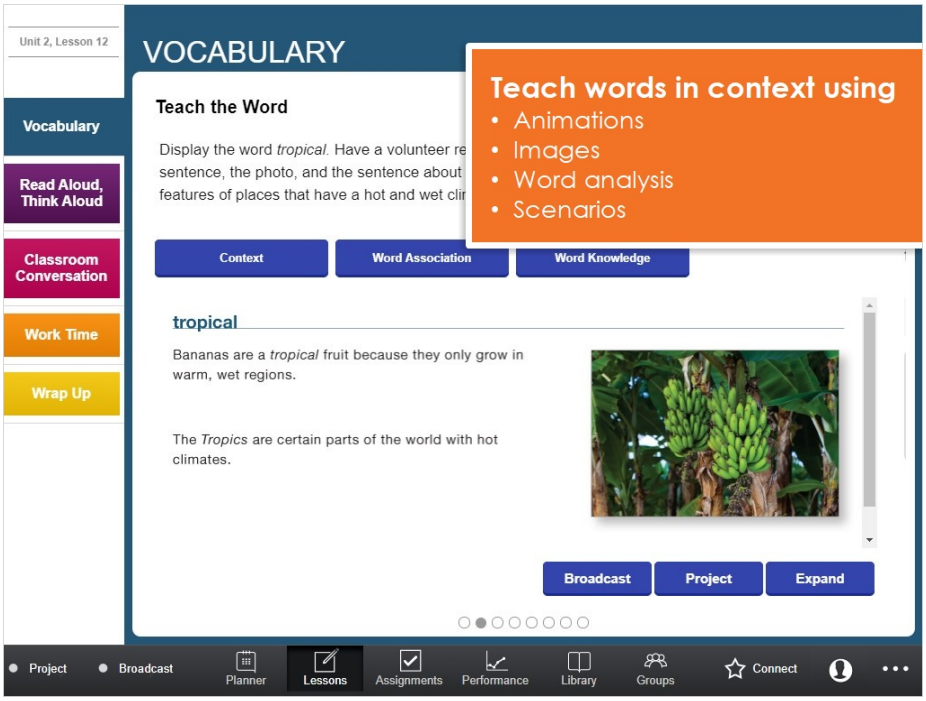
Vocabulary



During Vocabulary time, students learn vocabulary words from the anchor text. They'll complete surveys and Knowledge Checks to demonstrate their familiarity with the words and help guide your instruction.

You'll find colorful images, videos, and examples within the lesson to teach words in context.

You'll also introduce word study skills during some Vocabulary lessons.

Read Aloud, Think Aloud

Read aloud the on-level text, or play the audio version, during Read Aloud, Think Aloud.

Encourage students to follow along in the Student App.

Check out the designated stopping points. Use these moments to model close reading strategies and a proficient reader's thought process.

You'll also teach grade-level skills and vocabulary in context during the Read Aloud.

Students apply the skills throughout the week during the Whole Group and Work Time lesson segments.

Classroom Conversation

The Classroom Conversation lesson segment gives students more opportunities to apply skills and strategies.

To begin a discussion, broadcast or project the Conversation Starters. Click Broadcast to send the starters to students' devices or click Project to display them on screen.

Students make connections to the text using new vocabulary and practice oral language skills.

Notice the helpful suggestions to encourage students to respond and remain engaged.

And you even have an evaluation form to take notes on students' involvement.

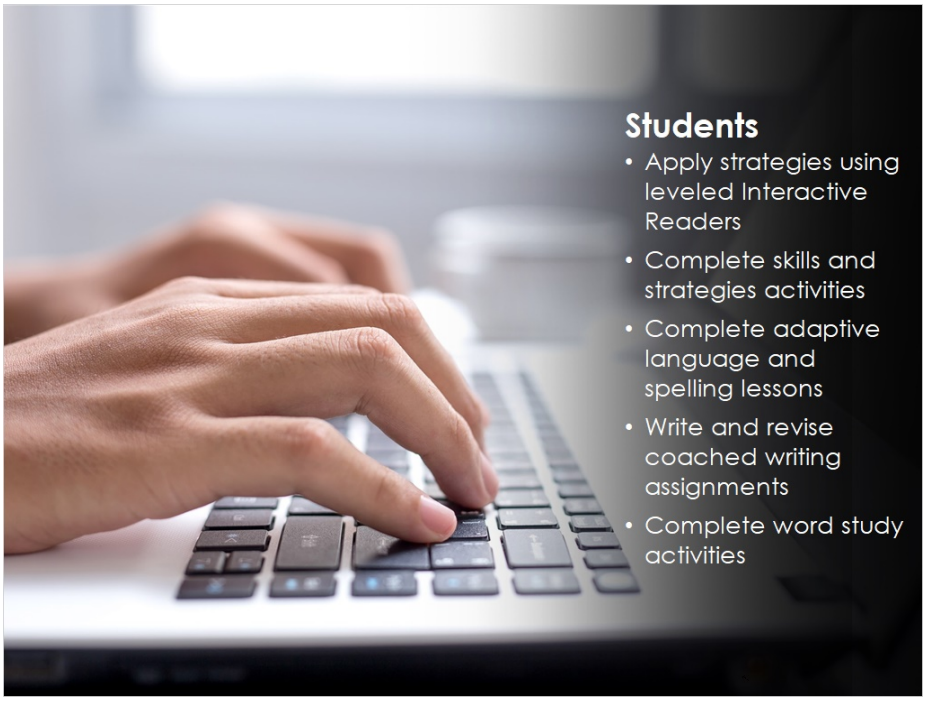
Work Time



Work Time gives students a chance to focus on the skills and strategies they need to practice.

Notice the options for independent practice, small groups, and early finishers.

You may need to use the Selective Broadcast feature while working with groups. This feature allows you to broadcast to specific students.

When working independently, students complete many types of activities.
